

Second graders are poets!

In writer's workshop, students are learning to see the world through poets' eyes, experimenting with language and sound to create meaning in their poems, and experimenting with different poetic structures.

- Students will choose meaningful topics to write poems about
- Students will learn how to incorporate strong feelings and clear details in their poems
- Students will practice incorporating poetic structures such as purposeful language, repetition, mood, and comparisons to elaborate their poems
- Students will use mentor texts to inspire their poems!
- Throughout the writing process, students are constantly studying different aspects of poetry to try in their independent writing.
